The daily d togs at the he to be worth $ topic assigned, "The Profits in Fruits in Maine," said that certain tions sometimes prevent any profits made, so he did not consider the by absolutely certain, but he believed were roof, certain, but he believed there were profits to be made. As for strawberies, no great outlay is required for starting in that line. Fifty bushels to the acre is a small average production, and he has known of handsome incomes being received from the land. Good fruits in their seasons are best foods, and cultivation of them will keep down doctor's bills. The children can be interested in small fruits, and keeping them at home, and from temptations, may be included in the profits derived. He advised the use of the Cuthbert raspberry as preferable to the Mariborough. In blackberry culture, he sold them at 8 cents per quart, and at that price they proved a profitable crop. When Baby w When she was When she bec When she had profitable crop.

Mr. S. Dawes followed, and presented the discouragements in small fruit culture. The discouragements that he had met in calityating small fruits were the lack of knowledge to start with, and in his fifteen the cally way to avoid them is to have proper tools and keep the ground clear the first season. The white grub can only be destroyed by careful watching, and destroying the insect. In cultivating blackberries, the highest trouble. This could be easily done by undermining and prying over, and weighting with earth. Currant worms can be destroyed by a solution of one spoonful of white hellebore to a pail of water. He said he die believe there were any more obstacles in the cultivation of small fruits.

A New Church. And now comes the rumor that Richmond is to be blessed with a new place of worship. Under the rectorship of Rev. Mr. Livingston the Episcopal mission has prospered to that extent that a r fund has been raised sufficient to furnish the Richmond members of the society with a church suitable for their needs. The fact that our churches now in stock are by no means crowded, and that two of them are at present without pastors, does not in the least prevent the Bes from hoping and expecting good results from the proposed project.—Richmond Bec.

York the first of October to officiate as one of the judges at the great Food Exposition, to be held at Madison Square Garden, Oct. 1st to 27th.

A pressing need at the State Fair Park is a supply of seats scattered around in the different parts of the park for the accommo-dation of ladies and elderly people, thus giving a chance for a brief rest from time to time, as they travel around to take in the thus do much for the comfort of visitors.

The State College did a good thing at the State Fair in advertising the institution. Their display of mechanical work, by stutracted much attention. It was in charge of President Fernald's son, Robert H., a member of the graduating class of '92, who was constantly on hand to give information in regard to the institution and distribute their illustrated announcements. They of N would, however, have done a still better thing if they had also made an exhibit of tural their farm and garden products, stock, etc., thus advertising the agricultural facilities of the institution along with the mechaniof the institution along with the mechanical. That is the department that needs the most pushing. Ask for more space, gentlemen, next time, and represent the institution in its full measure. No better place

The trial was carefully conduct throughout, in charge of C. A. Brackett. Gorham, with Harry Morse of Greene in care of the Cooley creamers in which the milk was set to cream. The cows in every case were milked in the presence of the committee, and the milk at once given i their charge.
It is well understood that tests like these do not show the full capacity of the cows placed under record, for it is known that in the short time they are at the fair the many disturbing influences by which they are surrounded, and to which they are subjected, interfere more or less with the yield of product, both milk and cream. Not-withstanding this fact, it will be seen that the record made by these cows in every case is a creditable one, and that as a record at a fair, where they had been stabled but two days before the test was entered upon the the yield of both cream and of milk was a for i this State. In the case of Mr. Reed's Maine State Jersey registry cow, with 5% inches of spect under pressure for a big record, but and fed only for business. We do not recall a single instance where so high a record has been made under similar circumstances.

"How are apples going to sell this year?" carr is the question met in every direction, as we ing fall in with the fruit growers from time to thei are going to get anything for them. For the information of such, we have been able to get hold of facts, of late, through meet-ing with a number of shippers of apples from different sections of New England, that in the Western and Southwestern points as to near where supplies of apples in the East can be best obtained in large quantities to meet the demands of their trade. We are authentically informed that these inquiries come from the great shipping centres of Chicago and St. general shipping centres o Louis, as well as from minor points all nist failure in all that section.

It is a well known fact that for two years past the section now looking for fruit for now a large shipper to Eastern markets. In men New York is short, and that the market to the supply, it certainly gives an encouraging outlook for the price of our Maine crop. While we would not give the matter undue color, yet it may be well to look out and not get caught by accepting low offers early in the season, but rather to wait, if need be, Bull the condition of the crown in the season. till the condition of the crop is known and values established. Certainly the outlook at the present time is that the crop of fruit the conditions of the crop of the conditions of the crop of the conditions of the crop of Aroostook Potatoes.

In view of the fact of an extremely light crop of potatoes in all of the central and western parts of the State and throughout New England and the East generally, much Aroostook potato section, and everywhere lisheard the inquiry, "What do you learn about the Aroostook crop?"

Such are the uncertainties laying over this crop till the time that it is fully made in I that we give little reliance to the "pro-

held with reliable growers in both upper and lower Aroostook, we are now able authentically to state that the crop of that
